Important information

Statement of tax record

1. This statement of tax record is issued in accordance with the Procurement Connected Policy - Shadow economy - increasing the integrity of government procurement ('the Policy').
2. The requirements for a satisfactory statement of tax record are detailed in the Policy.

Limitations of information

3. This statement of tax record is based on the limited criteria as outlined in the Policy and may not be suitable for other purposes.
4. This statement is not an ATO determination of the entity's tax compliance.
5. This statement is not evidence of the financial viability of the entity.
6. This statement is based on information from our systems. This may include information provided by the entity under Australia's self-assessment regime.
7. This statement of tax record may include statements the entity made when they applied for this statement of tax record.

This document does not replace existing due diligence and other checks that the Commonwealth and its contractors would normally take, even if the statement of tax record is satisfactory.

How long the statement is valid

8. The statement of tax record is valid for 12 months from the time of issue with the exception of entities that have no or less than four years Australian tax record. The statement for these entities is valid for six months.

Falsifying Commonwealth issued documents

9. If a statement of tax record is falsified and used to participate in a Commonwealth procurement process, it could constitute an offence under the Criminal Code Act 1995.
